Next Friday night the Johnson and Houtz Co. will present "Queen's Evidence" at the Lehi Opera House. This company is well known here and have a good play to present this time. They are spoken of very favorably in other towns.

We like the pluck of the Lehi Banner, whenever a statement is made in any way seeming otherwise derogatory to Lehi's interests the "Banner" is right on to it and sees that the statement is refuted. Lehi's citizens should stand by their "Banner". We were misinformed in relation to the Sugar factory running only four weeks, and we cheerfully make the correction. The factory commenced Sept. 2 and closed last Saturday.—Usonian

On Wednesday evening the wedding of Miss May Racker and Wm. Crabb was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Racker. An elegant supper was served to about 120 guests. Later in the evening a dance was given in the dining room of the Union Hotel and kept going until all were tired enough to go home. Many presents were given to the young couple and many wishes of future success in life. We also offer congratulations.

Sugar and Sunshine.

While high temperatures do not seem to be necessary, plenty of sunshine is essential to a large percentage of sugar in beets. Arizona leads all sections of the United States in the high percentage of sunshine. New Mexico is next to Arizona, and in both these territories sugar beets show a remarkably high percentage of saccharine matter. So sensitive is the sugar beet to the influences of sunshine that a few cloudy days just before harvest time will materially reduce the percentage of sugar.

A team and buggy containing J. E. Campbell, Charles Karren and James Clark came in collision with a post near the old Wanlass corner on Wednesday. The team broke loose and had a chase around town before it was captured. The occupants were thrown out but not seriously injured.

A suggestion to the government is carried in the fact reported by the Associated Press that counterfeit silver dollars have been recently put in circulation in St. Louis which weigh $3\frac{1}{2}$ grain more than the genuine. The fineness of the silver is also 94 per cent, while the genuine is but 90. The character of the coins was not suspected until some reacted the sub-treasury at St. Louis. It would be a good business proposition for the government to accept these dollars and, lib. paying for them, however only in standard silver coin. The counterfeiters can afford to make their dollars still much heavier and make a profit on the bullion.

Sugar Made From Potatoes

Brighter days are in store for Ireland, and her inhabitants will soon forget all about home rule in their anxiety to flood the English market with Irish sugar. At present that useful commodity is manufactured either from canes produced under tropical sunshine, or from the beet root cultivated in France and Germany, whose inhabitants, with a self-sacrifice highly meritorious, pay fourteen and sixteen cents a pound for an article produced in their own country in order that perfidious Albion may enjoy it for four cents. Ireland expects soon to enter into competition with the foreigner and drive him out of the field. A scientist who has had large experience of cane cultivation in Java, and bears a name which under a Dutch exterior shows indisputable marks of Hibernian extraction, has discovered a process by which excellent sugar in immense quantities can be got from potatoes. It does not matter whether the tubers are in first-class condition or not; they yield the sugar all the same. Irish agriculturists are, it is reported, from Donegal, waiting anxiously for details of the process, which may revolutionize the future of Ireland.—London Telegraph
